

John Rooney

My name is John Rooney, and I am from Dromore. I am Head Boy of St Patrick's College for 2025/26. As Head Boy my responsibilities include representing the school at events, acting as a Role Model for all students, support the school council, and helping support and guide younger students.

I study Construction, ICT and Professional Business. I hope to follow a career into Architectural Technology and Management in Ulster University in Belfast. I also have a role in helping with extra-curricular activities after school such as sports like Hurling and Gaelic football.

A few words of advice for younger pupils, everything worth doing takes time and effort. This applies to grades, relationships, career, character, and more. If you want to go somewhere meaningful and rewarding in life, there are no shortcuts.
